10:00 MARKETS KEYNOTE: Greater Gateway to China: Why China? Why Now?

The inclusion of China equities and bonds into global indices is driving foreign inflows into China. No institutional investor can afford to ignore the world's second-largest equities and bonds market. The continual liberalization of China's capital markets is opening the door for global investors. In recent years, the Chinese government accelerated the pace of market liberalization, relaxing its capital market regulatory framework to ease access and promote capital mobility aimed at increasing foreign participation. How will market reforms play to capture the impending flows? What are the market nuances to overcome? What are the trends as global investors chart their path into unfamiliar territory?
